diseases were 210, being 14.1 per cent. of the total mortality.

With the possible exception of a few delayed certificates, the death returns for the year 1912have all been received. The deaths numbesred 17,274, which is 230 less than in the previous year.

There were 1,374 deaths from pulmonary tuberculesis, which is only 12 less than last year, but with the increase in population gives a death rate of 11.9 per 10,000 of population.

Pneumonia with 1,704 deaths has the distinction of causing more deaths than any other single disease, still this number is 18 less than last year.

Typhoid fever with 128 deaths and Typhoid fever with 128 deaths and diphtheria with 192 deaths representing death rates of 1.12 and 1.67 per 10.000 population respectively, are the lowest death rates yet recorded for these diseases. Scarlet fever and whooping cough show a decrease in the death rate, while measles there were more deaths than in the previous There were 3,278 deaths of infants under one year of age. This is 31 more than during 1911. As the birth registration will exceed that of last year by some five or six hundred births, it will be seen that the infantile mortality has not increased.
